

PEAK LEADERSHIP TEAM COACHING

Through our PEAK Team program we teach your team how to use PEAK Leadership Practices to become more productive and more emotionally intelligent in their work together. We use a proven methodology that creates high-performing, sustainable, inspired teams. More than team-building exercises, this is a practical program that uses data-driven team assessment tools to measure both the tangible aspects of a team -- how productive they are - - and the intangibles -- how positive their team culture is. PEAK Leadership Team Coaching is unique because it develops the team as a whole rather than trying to improve individual members. The result is that the team reaches a new level of PEAK performance.

Why participate?

With our PEAK Leadership Team Coaching program, you'll often see immediate results. We kick off the program with an intensive, two-day session, where our coaches energize the team and provide tools and practices that they can use right away. Monthly follow-up sessions ensure that the changes are sustained and become ingrained in the fabric of the team. At the end of six months to a year of coaching your team will be operating at a high level, bringing PEAK Principles to life through powerful PEAK Leadership Practices.

What you'll experience

- An online team survey that allows the team to assess itself on a range of team qualities and to express their perspectives about the team;
- A custom-designed off-site where the team gets an accurate picture of how they view themselves now and begins to see the gap between that and the culture they desire;
- Six -to- twelve months of team coaching to create consistent PEAK performance where the team is both highly productive and deeply satisfied with what they do.

"A PEAK Leader unlocks the human potential that's stored in every organization or team so that PEAK performance is more likely."

- Chip Conley

"The team coaches are deeply attuned to the corporate world. This understanding makes the team willing to push through their own boundaries."

- Senior Partner, Ogilvy & Mather
